1. The Commission on the Status of Women, established in 1946, was the first of its kind. It was created by the United Nations to promote gender equality and to monitor the progress of women's rights. The Commission has since become a permanent body, and its work is carried out through various mechanisms, including the Commission on the Status of Women, the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, and the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights.
